

TOP REASONS TO CHOOSE PTW

REASON #2 - Our Long History and Track Record of Student Success

Diane Lilli, Writer and PTW Parent

"When my son was in high school, his school didn't have much ways in the arts. They had some, but PTW was the backbone he did. He started in high school to go and audition for other schools to get parts, and he landed lead roles in musicals. It was amazing; it blew me away. Then, when it was time to go to college, he was dedicated to going to a performing arts school, so he applied to some of the strongest, toughest schools to get into. I mean in my high school, it was Glen Ridge, no one got into the Boston Conservatory except my son to this day. And what he did is he prepared at PTW! He had teachers get him ready, rehearse him, go through the routines, totally prepare him, and then even GO with him to auditions. On top of that, he had scholarships to numerous schools, and then went to the best, in my opinion, school in the country, the Boston Conservatory. I would tell any parent to choose a school for their child; you owe it to your child or your children to come to PTW. I get choked up just thinking about it! I mean, to think of my son and how much he grew and how much success he had! To this day, he's an adult performing shows in New York City. I'm just amazed at how hopeful he is and how talented he is and most of all, how empathetic he is, and full of life and love - which is what this place gave him. It's not just a family, it's an inspired way of life."

"There've been many impressive actresses who came from here, and Vivian is always talking about that. I just know that with our daughter, Vivian, she absolutely comes home glowing after she's had an afternoon or evening at PTW. She just loves it, and it's been so wonderful for her personality. And it doesn't mean that anyone has to become a professional."

Holly Palker, PTW Parent

"Past students have gone onto great things, which gives us a lot of confidence in the teachers and the philosophy. I don't come here to say I hope my daughter's famous; I think that the education she receives here will do her good in any field or in any path she chooses in life."

Zeynep Allyn, PTW Parent

"Before Peter Pan [on NBC Live], we did the summer camp here, and it was the experience of a lifetime. I think he enjoyed it almost as much as Peter Pan, I have to admit. He just loves it here, and the individual attention is amazing. Whether they're gonna be stars one day or whether they're doing this for fun, it doesn't matter. The bottom line is they're having a great time, and it's become a family for us, too. We love it here."
