Performers Theatre Workshop, located in Millburn & Maplewood, is one of the metropolitan area's leading performing arts training centers. At PTW, students, ages five to adult, can take a variety of classes in all performing areas and proceed at their own pace and level. There is an enormous sense of community as well as a respect for the individual, which nurtures the young artist and prepares him or her for life on or off the stage.

PTW offers over 87 group classes on Saturday and throughout the week including classes in Voice, Song Interpretation, Musical Theatre Performance, Jazz/Hip-Hop, Tap, Ballet/Modern, Stage Acting, On Camera Acting, and Comedy & Improvisation, and Sight Singing. PTW offers Jr. Jr. and Junior Division for its youngest students as well as advanced classes and special performing groups: Showtime, Triple Threat, Show Production, Broadway Bound, Encores, Spotlights, and Troupe. Private lessons are also available in voice, acting, dance, guitar, bass, piano, songwriting, music theory, and audition preparation.

Performance opportunities are an integral part of the artistic curriculum. PTW offers a number of exciting performing opportunities throughout the year. Our shows in December (Fall semester) and May (Spring semester) are the culmination of the semester's work. Some classes do not perform, depending on the type of class and age range. Also, as part of our Winter NYC Broadway Showcase, select PTW students will have the exciting opportunity to perform in March at a New York City Cabaret!

PTW also has an exciting summer camp and conservatory program for students ages 9-18 with a NYC Broadway Showcase at the end of the session, as well as summer camp for children ages 4-8 also with a performance at the end of the camp.

Performers Theatre Workshop was established in 1983 by Esther and Howard Kravitz, Juilliard graduates and longtime educators and performers who found themselves driving all over New Jersey and New York to give their two children all the lessons and classes young budding performers need. They created PTW to fulfill every student performer's need to have all classes "under one roof." They gathered top instructors who were active performers in the field, provided a strong classical training curriculum, mixed it with warmth and caring, and created an artistic community that has become "the theatre home" of thousands of dedicated students for over thirty three years.

It was so exciting to have a bunch of people with the same passion and desire." Her mom reports, "I would pick Meghann up on 5:00 at the end of her day on Saturday, and she was as energized as I'd ever seen her. Also, discovering the full potential that exists in each individual and challenging students to take risks, grow and develop in a caring community atmosphere are important goals of the school. School director, Dean Kravitz explains, "Our true mission is to build self-confidence for success on and off stage. Talent agents often refer their clients to us because they know we care about our students, and because we have an outstanding faculty. But PTW is not just for professionals. Students of all abilities are welcome at PTW, and we care about each one."

SING!

Students age 9-18, class times vary depending on student's age and experience. Please call so we can help you choose the best placement.

GROUP VOICE

MONDAYS, TUESDAYS & SATURDAYS

In this class, vocal technique is taught with care for the developing voice with a focus on resonance, breath control, intonation, development of high and low registers, singing harmony and building repertoire in both contemporary and classical styles — allowing the student to discover his/her voice individually as well as learning to sing with others. This class also helps students learn how to sing properly in order to prevent damage to the vocal chords.

SIGHT-SINGING

SATURDAYS

Sight singing is the process of looking at a piece of music you've never seen before and being able to sing the notes just by reading the music. This is a very valuable skill for all musicians, but especially for singers. We have been offering sight singing to Troupe, our highest-level group, for a few years, and the students in Troupe have expressed to us how much they are learning from this class and how excited they are to hone their new skills of sight singing. Also, PTW Alumni have come back and told us how confident and prepared they felt in college vocal groups having sight singing skills they learned from us. This year we are adding sight-singing classes for Performers level students as part of their track. We are also offering the opportunity for Triple Threat, Show Production, Broadway Bound and Encore students to take sight singing as an elective.

GROUP SONG INTERPRETATION

THURSDAYS & SATURDAYS

In Song Interpretation, we address: How do you act a song? What do you need to know to communicate that song most personally, accurately, and effectively?

In PTW Song Interpretation classes, students learn how to:

- Explore the material thoroughly — enhancing understanding of meaning and song
- Ask the right questions for each specific situation and setting
- Apply techniques and tools to deepen personal involvement in communication of material
- Gain greater command in performance
- Repeat the performance in an honest, authentic, and fresh manner — as if for the “first time,” every time.
